The "Mémoires" of Guillaume and Martin Du Bellay in sumptuous contemporary golden vellum binding.

Jacques Guérin’s own copy.

Paris, Abel l’Angelier, 1585.

DU BELLAY, Guillaume et Martin. LES MEMOIRES de Messire Martin du Bellay, seigneur de Langey.
Paris, Abel l’Angelier, 1585.

8vo of (10) ff., 528 ff., (7) ff.
Golden vellum, gilt fillets around the covers, wide central oval adorned with gold laurel palms, flat spine adorned with gilt flowerets, gilt edges. Contemporary binding.

170 x 110 mm.

RARE AND APPEALING COPY OF THE MEMOIRS OF WILLIAM AND MARTIN DU BELLAY COVERING THE ENTIRE REIGN OF FRANCIS I and DEDICATED TO KING HENRY III by RENÉ DU BELLAY.
Abel l'Angelier, 135.

It includes the 3 books of William Du Bellay's Memoirs, interspersed in the Ten Books of Memoirs of which they form V, VI and VII.

Uncle of the poet Joachim Du Bellay, Guillaume Du Bellay sire de Langey (1491-1543) was one of the best diplomats of his time and one of the bravest generals of Francis I. A writer and Renaissance man of action, he was admired by François Rabelais. Lord of Langeai, William of Bellay did great service to Francis I; he was no less a good captain than a skilled negotiator, and he had a pen as good as tongue and sword. Until 1536 he was the linchpin of his sovereign's foreign policy. He was instrumental in the success of the negotiations that led to the Treaty of Cambrai (1529).

"The Memoirs of Martin du Bellay, brother of William and Cardinal Jean du Bellay, are in fact the official story of the reign of Francis I" (Bibliothèque Esmerian).

"Of all the narrative sources of the reign of Francis I, it is the only one that embraces the entire reign. On the other hand, the quality and rank of the authors, the role they played, the documents that both were able to obtain and which they actually used, make their memoirs a first-worth historical work."
(Bourrilly quoted by Hauser).

Montaigne (Essais, II, X) will analyze on several occasions the work and character of Guillaume Du Bellay as well as his relationship with King Francis I.

SUMPTUOUS COPY IN CONTEMPORARY GOLD VELLUM BINDING.

mémoires
de messire
du Bellay

4 500 €